You must be able to check these two boxes:

- Have you familiarized yourself with your host site's documentation guidelines?
- Have you had a conversation with your host site about how images/videos have been shared in the past and how you should share yours?
- Will you give participants access to any photos which they would like to see/use?
- Does your host organization already have someone in charge of documentation/archiving? If so, have you talked with them?
- Have you asked your host if they have any specific documentation needs or goals?
- Have you considered organizing a meeting to discuss local preferences about documentation?
